HISTORICAL DINNER SERIES
THIRD TUESDAY OF EVERY MONTH ★ 6:00 P.M.

Join us as we learn about the American Revolution and enjoy dishes reminiscent of those served during Colonial times.

CHICKEN MADEIRA

Madeira wine was popular in the 1700s. During this time, companies produced large amounts of wine on the island and sent it all around the world to age in the belly of ships.

ROASTED SALMON

Salmon was consumed regularly when it was available, but often it was replaced by a species of shad, that came to be known as poor man's salmon

POTATO CAKES

An excellent way to use any leftover potatoes was to either deep fry or bake them for later consumption.

VEGETABLE MEDLEY

Beets, turnips and carrots were a staple of the Colonial diet since they stored excellently during winter.

CHOCOLATE TART

A basic, but delicious end to our evening! We are using our Flourless Chocolate Brownie Custard in place of this confectionary delight.
